HE TRIP FROM SEA GIRT-THE CRACK OF THE RIFLE BY DAY AND THE SINGING OF THE MOSQUITO BY NIGHT-MATCHES IN WHICH "OUR BOYS" WILL BE ALLOWED TO PARTICIPATE

Staff Correspondence of The Evening Star. CREEDMOOR, L. I., Sept. 1, 1891. The D. C. N. G. brigade team of 1891 is at Creedmoor, having arrived here last night, and at this precise moment most of the members of the peripatetic organization are down on the famous range shooting away both ammunition and money in order that they may, perhaps, receive "some thirty, some sixty and some an hundred fold" when the meeting comes to an end. This afternoon the report of exploding cartridges punctuates the fleeting minutes and the whistling sound of bullets making long range flights is almost continuous; last night the guns were cold and silent, but there was no lack of noises. A million mosquitoes—it may be there were less than a million, but the probabilities are that there were more—werried the Wash-ingtonians with their songs and their voracity those who retired to bed were unappreciative listeners to the snorous and sonorous efforts of such old-time professional performers as Col. Clay, Capt. Parmenter, Capt. Beil and Lieut. Stewart. Each of these gentimen is the proud possessor of one more bone than is generally given ordinary mortals; the extra ossification is located in the upper portion of the nose and has by some upper portion of the nose and has, by some playful layman, been denominated the trom-bone. At an early hour this morning an amateur but determined vigilance committee, men to whose eyelids refrashing slumber had refused to come because it was scared away, met in one of the upper hallways of the hotel, and there without discussion or dissent adopted a series of res-olutions which must result in a bloody tragedy unless the officers named will consent to the wearing of such snore preventives as may be devised by the committee. At Sea Girt this snoring matter only concerned the unfortunate four who slept with the snorers—there were two men in a tent—but here we are all sleeping in three rooms with the doors open. No one

THE TRIP FROM SEA GIRT. It was 1 p.m. yesterday when the team said good-bye to Sea Girt. Capt. Bell marched the men from the camp to the station, after the commissary department had filled the com-uand with ham sandwiches and artesian water. While under the influence of this lunch Private simply because there were numerous beautiful females in one of the cars. He was rescued, females in one of the cars. Quartermaster Parmenter had gone on to New York four hours before, taking with him the baggage. so no one had anything especially burdensome to carry unless mention be made of full cartridge belts, guns, rubber blankets and other light and airy impediments of a military nature. Just before we started some one asked: "Whop ut his railroad ticket in his trunk for safe keeping?" It was an arrow shot at a venture, but there was immediate response from Lieut. Farrabee. He had done that very thing. The trunk was in New York; the lieutenant was at Sea Girt. Very sorrowful was he as he baid his fare to the conductor, but he lives in semi-enjoyment of a hope that the railroad company—one of those soulless and grasping corporations which want all they can get—will refund the second payment. Private Walter Cash had also been guilty of hiding his ticket in his trunk, but he thought of it before the baggage left Sea Girt, and thus can join in the little laugh on Lieut. Farrabee. brought back and tied to a seat on the depot

Making a Business of Murder. A dispatch from Pesth says that the poisoning mania is again spreading in southern Hungary and three old women of the class of professional poisoners have been arrested. It appears that these women, for a compensation, poison people whom other people wish to get rid of. Their patronage comes chiefly from wives who have got tired of their husbands and seek that method of divorce. There is reason to believe that a multitude of persons have perished in this way, and each of the women now arrested is said to have had at least ten victims. Sensational disclosures are expected at the approaching trial, as the prisoners are charged with having practiced their nefarious trade among some prominent families of south-ern Hungary.

In each case Senecal lad demanded money and lad said that "thay all gava it." had said that "they all gave it."

The Work of an Ex-Employe. George C. Anderson, superintendent of the Madison, Ill., car works in St. Louis, was walking along the approach to the Merchants' bridge yesterday on his way to Madison. Warren Colbett, an ex-employe of the car works, walked up to Mr. Anderson and shot him in the back, the bullet striking the shoulder blade and mak-ing a painful but not dangerous wound. The would-be murderer then turned the revolver on himself and put a bullet in his head, expiring shortly afterward. Colbett was discharged a short time ago and that is supposed to be the cause of the attempted murder.

It is stated no definite larly and deliberately assessed fictitious persons for the purpose of defrauding the state; that they have regularly exempted persons liable to taxation; that they have grossly underrated hundreds of prominent merchants; that they have sent out notices of assessment in a high class and returned them to the treasurer in a lower class, thus allowing a third person to pocket the difference in the tax, and that their plan as to reductions was a systematic scheme before the difference in the tax, and that their plan as to reductions was a systematic scheme before the difference in the tax, and that their plan as to reductions was a systematic scheme before 28.

est in the road to secure a debt due to himself and his firm of $72,000. Witness had supplied rolling stock to McFarlane. A bill was given for this, which, when he presented it to the Ontario bank, he was told to renew for a month and it would be paid out of the next subsidy. That subsidy, $175,000, was paid to the Ontario bank and kept by them.

The witness waited twelve months and then issued a capias, putting McFarlane into insolvency. He did so because his solicitor said McFarlane had committed a fraud in transferring the subsidies to the bank. Mr. Cooper's evidence closed the case for the Quebec government. Regarding the charge that $118,000. or the old company's money, had been embezzled, Contractor Armstrong was recalled and testified that the abstrace was a stress of the contractor of the co Contractor Armstrong was recafied that the charge was untrue. The committee adjourned after deciding to summon Robert McGreevy and M. P. Lonegan the solicitor for the new company. Mr. Scott Moved to Newport. W. L. Scott was better Monday night, and at a conference of his physicians yesterday morning it was decided to remove him to Newport without delay. President Newell's private car was made ready, and at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon it was attached to the Lake Shore limited, containing besides Mr. Scott and the immed, containing besides Mr. Scott and the immediate members of the family Drs. Pepper and Brandes, Matthew H. Taylor, R. H. Townsend of Philadelphia, Mr. Scott's son-in-law, and the nurses and servants.

The ex-Congressman presented a sad picture as he was lifted from his carriage to the private car, and it was a sorrowful group of friends who assembled at the depot to witness his departure.

Picked Up by the Cowcatcher.

An officer while passing the track of the New York and Northern Railroad Company at Morris dock, New York, Monday night saw with horror a freight train thunder down upon a man who was walking in the track with a lantern in his hand. When the train had lantern in his hand. When the train had Morris dock, New York, Monday night saw passed he went to find the victim, but only picked up the broken lantern. He was considerably puzzled to know where the body went to and searched the place carefully without success. Yesterday the mystery was cleared up. The man, who was Patrick McGaugh of Rahway, N. J., an employe of the Potter Dredging Company at Morris dock, was picked up by the cowcatcher of the train and carried to a station twenty miles distant from the place. His only injury was a severe scalp wound, which has left him in a dazed condition.

Mayor Grant's Views on Excise Laws. Mayor Grant made a brief speech before the Liquor Dealers'Association in New York yesterday and was warmly applauded. He welcomed the delegates with a great deal of cordiality and read a paper which he said he had carefully prepared, giving his views on the present excise pared, giving his views on the present excise laws. He for a long time had the conviction that the present law discriminated unjustly between citizens. The laws were passed long ago, before the city had attained its present size. Either all selling of liquor on Sunday should be prohibited and the prohibition enforced or the law should make no distinction between the exclusive, the open club, between the big hotel and the cheap lodging house. It would take ten times our police to enforce the law. He favored opening the saloons for certain hours on Sunday.

Sunday.

When the report of the committee on credentials was presented quite a debate arcse on the question of admitting the wholesale liquor dealers to the convention. It was finally voted dealers to the convention. It was many voted to sustain the executive committee, which yesterday adopted a resolution to the effect that the wholesale dealers were not entitled to admission to the convention as delegates. A committee on resolutions consisting of one member from each district association was appointed, after which an adjournment was taken.
